2015 All Japan Budo Exhibition

The 2015 All Japan Budo Exhibition was held at Ikegami Kaikan on 05 April, and featured representatives, as well as senior and junior students from laido, Kobudo, Nihon Jujutsu, Judo, and Aikido divisions. The program began at 10 in the morning with the opening ceremony and welcome addresses by Kokusai Budoin, IMAF President Tokugawa Yasuhisa, and Chief Director Nobetsu Tadanori, and conluded at 16:30. This year marked the 37th All Japan Budo Exhibition, a tradition that began in 1952 at Hibiya Park, Tokyo, the Kokusai Budoin, IMAF inaugural event.

The laido exhibition featured Musō Jikiden Eishin-ryū, 無双直伝英信流, practitioners demonstrating Kata (prearranged forms), under the direction of Matsuzaki Iwao Sensei. laido is the martial art of drawing and cutting with a sword which was established during the warring states period, sengoku jidai (1467 – 1603).

The Kobudo exhibition featured Ryushin Souchi ryu, as demonstrated by the Soke, Yahagi Kunikazu Sensei, and senior honbu dojo members.

Ryushin Shouchi Ryu was established in 2011.

Yahagi Kunikazu is the Soke (hereditary head of a system or style, in traditional Japanese martial arts). Ryushin Shouchi Ryu refers to unmovable wisdom developed through a strong yet flexible body and spirit. Ryushin (柳心), or mind/heart of the willow, which does not loose its leaves even in winter, Shouchi (照智) translates as shining wisdom, while Ryu is style, or school.

The Nihon Jujutsu exhibition featured members of the Embassy Judo Club, and members of Kisuikan Dojo, under the joint direction of John B. Gage Sensei, and Satoh Tadayuki Sensei. Nihon Jujutsu, 日本柔術 is a modern Japanese martial art founded by Sato Shizuya Sensei (1929 - 2011), which is based on practical, efficient techniques found in both ancient and contemporary martial arts, and focuses on physical and spiritual development.
